

NATIONAL ATLAS
OF GEORGIA

2018

Nana Bolashvili / Andreas Dittmann / Lorenz King /
Vazha Neidze (ed.)

National Atlas of Georgia

THE EDITORS

Nana Bolashvili is Director of the Vakhushti Bagrationi Institute of Geography at the Tbilisi State University and President of the Georgian Geographical Society.

Andreas Dittmann is Professor of Geography at the University of Giessen, Germany.

Lorenz King is scientist at the University of Giessen, Germany, and an expert for Climate Change and Natural Hazards (permafrost, glaciers, floods and droughts).

Vazha Neidze is Head of the Human Geography Department at the Vakhushti Bagrationi Institute of Geography at the Tbilisi State University.

2018

X, 138 pages with numerous colored photos, figures, tables and graphics

€ 196,-

978-3-515-12057-9 HARDCOVER

978-3-515-12183-5 E-BOOK

Until recently, knowledge of Georgia was limited in Western Europe, as this now independent country had been part of the Soviet Union until 1991. Georgia is well known for its hospitality, wine and cuisine, and also for the mountain peaks of the Caucasus which reach above 5000 meters. Otherwise few people know that there are different languages and ethnic groups in Georgia, that a separate Georgian alphabet exists and that Georgia has a fascinating history of more than 2000 years. The National Atlas presents detailed information with maps and accompanying text for the visitor as well as for scientists and business travellers.

The National Atlas of Georgia, published for the first time in English by the Institute of Geography of Tbilisi State University as a strongly revised, updated and completed edition, offers the most current geographic information on Georgia today. The thematic maps are created using the latest digital techniques, detailing the physical environment, climate, economy, population, and historical milestones of the country. Maps, tables and texts are updated with the latest information from the following statistical sources: the National Statistics Office of Georgia, the Agency of Protected Areas and the Georgian National Tourism Administration. The accomplishment of this National Atlas of Georgia is the result of an intense cooperation between Tbilisi State University and Justus-Liebig-University Giessen and was supported by the German Federal Ministry of Education and Research.

Franz Steiner
Verlag

Please order here:
www.steiner-verlag.de