

Karl-Joachim Hölkeskamp

Roman Republican Reflections

Studies in Politics, Power, and Pageantry

2020. 274 pages with 36 b/w illustrations

€ 58,-

978-3-515-12703-5 HARDCOVER

The international discussion on the political culture of the Roman republic, which began in the 1980s and is still going on, is one of the most vibrant and lively debates in the Classics. This collection of essays – all revised and updated – offers fresh approaches to central themes of the debate: Roman republican social and political order in scholarship in the 20th century; the origins and development of the aforementioned debate; the emergence of new questions, fields of research, theoretical and methodological approaches; the constitution of the ruling class; the concept of ‘political culture’; the importance of public oratory; the character and role of the ‘public’ in a ‘city-state’ – contio and comitia; the role of history and collective memory; the performative construction of hierarchy and ‘power’; performative media of self-presentation – processions and other rituals; monumental and other visual media of self-fashioning – temples, spoils and statues; the self-fashioning of prominent families – the Marcii and the Cornelii Scipiones.

CONTENTS

Preface | The Politics of Elitism | Fact(ions) or Fiction? | The Roman Republic as Theatre of Power | Self-Serving Sermons | The Self-Fashioning of the New Elite | History and Collective Memory in the Middle Republic | In the Web of (Hi-)Stories | Memoria by Multiplication | Bibliography | Index

THE AUTHOR

Professor of Ancient History in the University of Cologne (1995–2019), now emeritus; formerly Moses and Mary Finley Fellow in Ancient History, Darwin College Cambridge (1987–91); Visiting Professor, University of Paris-Sorbonne (2008); publications on archaic Greek law and legislation; political, social and cultural history of the Roman republic, its institutions, procedures and rituals; comparative analysis of city-state cultures; theories and methods.

Franz Steiner
Verlag

Please order here:
service@steiner-verlag.de